Scott Paper Company For Greater Freedom In The Maine Woods

In a recent news release from the Department of Economic Development of the State of Maine, Vice-President James L. Madden made a statement that has some aspects of the revolutionary.

The Scott Paper Company has just given 300 acres on the shores of Moosehead Lake for a State Park and in connection with this made some statements that contrast vividly with the policies of some timberlands owners in the Rangeley Lakes Region.

In this area of Maine, citizens have for many years been plagued by a policy of the wild land owners of keeping people out of the woods. Hundreds of square miles of lakes, mountains, rivers, and forests have been closed by iron posts and chains across logging roads to all but a favored few who are lucky enough to have permission to go into the areas.

Vice-President Madden of Scott

Paper Company had this to say about his company's views.

"We believe that recreational uses of Maine's timberlands and water resources are compatible with timber harvesting and that the fullest utilization of these natural resources is in the best public interest and will produce the most stable and prosperous economy for the area.

"With increasing leisure time, higher personal incomes, an expanding population and improved highways, Maine's forests, mountains, lakes and streams are attracting thousands of vacationists, tourists, hunters, water sport enthusiasts and campers, annually. This growing host of outdoors-minded make a sizable contribution to the state's economy."

According to Larry Stewart of the State Park Commission,

Saddleback Corp. Plans

Get your axes sharpened and your hiking boots greased. There is going to be an all day outing and COMMUNITY WORK DAY up on the ski trails of Saddleback Mountain sometime early in October. The purpose of this enterprise is to get people out on the mountain so that they can see what we have got here in the Rangeley Region in the way of ski terrain. You may be surprised at the size of this development. Incidentally, to get a little work done toward the building of the ski area is another reason for the Community Work Day.

White flags have been put in tree tops on the mountain to mark the base of the ski lift and at two alternate destinations of the ski lift at the top of the mountain. All three flags are visible from the Saddleback Lake Lodge with binoculars. The distance is too great (about 4 miles as the crow flies) to see the

Road Construction To Begin

This week will see the beginning of the construction of the remaining 3.6 miles of the road between Oquossoc and Rangeley. The contract for this section of the road was received by Cleve West of Errol, New Hampshire.

West was the contractor who built the road up Mount Washington in the White Mountains of New Hampshire. The work on this section was not permitted to begin until after Labor Day. Now that this date is passed, it is expected that the work

THE END OF AN ERA

by JOANNE BLYTHE

(Haines Landing, Saturday, August 30)

While this article is being written, the charred ruins of the once famous old Mooselookmeguntic House are still smoldering. By the dock the auxiliary water pumps whine into action periodically to check any further outburst of the flames that on Wednesday evening ravaged one of the few remaining resort hotels in the area. Only the Barker and the Rangeley Inn remain now, remnants of a great era, the era of the resort hotel.

In the early 1900's the Rangeley Region did a bustling business

The Mooselookmeguntic Hotel burned with flames which sometimes reached and estimated 200 feet in the air. The fire companies of Oquossoc and Rangeley confined the flames to the main building and an other structure immediately adjacent.

Hunting Season Opens October 1

With the coming of September, the lovers of the great outdoors begin to think of the Rangeley Region in terms of the shotgun and the rifle and the "patridge" and the deer and the bear. The vast wilderness area surrounding the Rangeley Region in all directions gives a tremendous area in which to hunt.

Rangeley is unique in many respects. But one of the unusual things about hunting in the Rangeley Region is that you can choose the area in which you wish to kill your deer. If you don't like to walk, you can get one right beside the road. If you love the wilderness and solitude

AUNT JO'S
NOTEBOOK

I had a lot of little inconsequential jottings in my notebook for this week's issue, but somehow right now I don't feel much up to trivia and nonsense. So if you'll pardon an old lady this once, I'd like to be serious for a spell.

I guess all of us who've lived in this region any time at all live with a deathly fear of fire. We've seen too often the hopeless destruction that fire can cause, and how its nigh unto impossible to stop a forest fire once it gets going. Living as I do within spitting distance of the Mooselookmeguntic House, you all can imagine the complete horror we all felt last Wednesday night. When I say we,
I mean Mabel and Pat Thomas,
Dot and Herb Welch, the Ritzis, and everyone else who lives in the Haines Landing-Bald Mountain area. Our homes are largely surrounded by woods, built one on top of the other and for a good part highly inaccessible. Had there been any wind at all on Wednesday night,
I feel sure that a good many of us would be homeless today.

Several people have said to me,
"What were you so upset about.
Your place didn't burn." No, it didn't burn, but none of us knew that. Many of my neighbors were all set to move out, their clothes and cars packed in case the fire spread. We were lucky, that's all.
I guess we can thank God or the fates, or what have you. I for one want to thank our volunteer fire departments.

We hear a lot of complaints about the fire companies, but when there's an emergency, we need them desperately. How often do we stop to think that these men are risking their lives to save us on a purely voluntary basis. Do we ever consider that after a long day's work they'll give up their much needed sleep to answer the alarm; work desperately all night;
and quite often, after the fire is out, go immediately to their place of business without a scrap of sleep.

Take Don French for example.
Thursday noon time he was, with a small group of men, still watching the last flaming bits of the fire after putting in a long, bitter cold night of hard work. When he was finally relieved Thursday afternoon, could he go home to bed? No, he had to take care of one of his customers first. Don, is only one example, but the same applies to the entire membership of our volunteer fire department.

When the alarm went off on Wednesday night, these men dropped whatever they were doing. When they arrived at the scene the three story building was a mass of flames and had already burnt down to two stories.
The heat was so great that they were unable to approach with the hoses for some time. Up until midnight they feared they would be unable to keep the blaze from spreading to the adjacent buildings. They risked their lives, as walls collapsed and flaming timbers hurtled towards them, to save the adjoining buildings.

They were wet and cold and tired. And they worked through the night at great odds. In the city there are police departments to keep the crowds of sightseers back, but here our men must work with sightseers crawling up their backs. Why, I heard one of these folks complaining because they couldn't drive their car right down to the fire. They had to walk. Not only were the firemen risking their lives from the fire, but until the light company disconnected the lines there was the fear of electrocution.

Finally, they were afraid. Not only afraid for their lives, but afraid for their homes and families. Had there been a wind, or had the fire gotten out of control, the homes and businesses of many of them would have been in danger. They are brave men, our volunteer firemen, and good neighbors in the true sense of the word.

On behalf of my friends and neighbors in the Haines Landing and Bald Mountain area, my family and myself I want to say God bless you to each and every member of the Rangeley-Oquossoc Fire Company. Thank-you for saving our homes.

Sincerely,
Aunt Jo.

LET'S BE A 100% TOWN

Have a part in changing the history of the

RANGELEY REGION

The creation of a Winter Sports resort in the Rangeley Region will increase the business, the employment and lift the morale of the entire region. It will change the face of the region so that in ten years you will scarcely recognize it. This will be the result of the investment of large sums of money in motels, hotels, restaurants and amusement facilities to serve the people who will come to the Rangeley Lakes Region.

Every adult resident of the region will want to have a part in the development of the Rangeley Lakes Region Winter Sports Resort.

DON'T FAIL TO BUY AT LEAST ONE SHARE OF STOCK EVEN IF YOU HAVE TO BORROW THE TEN DOLLARS.

Ski resort operators who know their business are eyeing the Rangeley Region with envy.

THE RANGELEY REGION IS FACING A BOOM · BE A PART OF IT BY BUYING SHARES IN THE RANGELEY-SADDLEBACK CORP.

The 4116 foot high Saddleback Mountain is the site of the ski development. The two white lines running up the mountain are the alternate routes for the ski lift that are being considered at the present time. The longer lift would be 6000 feet long the shorter one 4000 feet. The long one would give an additional 400 feet in vertical drop. One of these lifts will be the probable initial ski lift investment on the mountain. The upper terminal of the longer lift is 4 miles from the camera on the shore of Saddleback lake.

Editorial

The August 25th BOSTON HERALD had an interesting story about fish in Henry Moore's Rod and Gun Column. We are wondering if it wouldn't be worth considering in the Rangeley Region. The American Brewery of Baltimore is spending a lot of money to find out the habits of the salt water striped bass. The Brewery has hired a team of fish biologists to band stripers in the Chesapeake Bay, the same as the State is doing here in the Rangeley Region. However, the brewery boys have added a new gimmick. Once each year for the past three years they have released a striped bass with a diamond studded, gold band in his jaws. If this fish called "Diamond Jim" is taken the first year of his freedom, the lucky fisherman receives $25,000. An unemployed man named William Simmons of Baltimore took this year's "Diamond Jim" recently. Two other "Diamond Jim" fish, one released in 1956 and the other in 1957 have not yet been caught. After the first year, the value of the gold banded fish drops to $1,000. These thousand dollar striped bass may now be anywhere along the Atlantic Coast. The biologists have released 20 "Diamond Jim Juniors" this year also. Four are worth $1,000 each, eight are worth $500 and eight more will bring the angler who lands them $250.

If you want to stimulate spring fishing, that's all there is to it men. Just get a brewery to drop a few $25,000 landlocked salmon into the Rangeley Lakes drainage system, then stand back to avoid being trampled.

Dear Aunt Jo,

I keep meanin' to write yew a line to tell yew how much I do love to follow from week to week to follow all your comin's and goin's. How yew can kiver so much ground and still be a artist, I'll never figger out. Yew jest don't miss nothin'.

Seems to me the to-rest season is fast comin' to a end altho I can't say moving from a well "got-up" home to a sort of on-handly camp lends it self to resting a lot. But they do say as how a change is as good as a rest!

Since I like bein' a mite stuck-up, I'm signin' my name a little fancier than just plain Liza, which allus reminds me of that that female as ran acrost chunks of ice in Uncle Tom's time. Effen she'd ben up here she could a just hiked right along on the level of that tar lake or pond or whatev — 'course she woulda had more trouble eludin' her persuers — they bein' able to foller easier — so she was better off whar she wuz, I guess —

Lookin' forward to another season of your goin's on and hopin' yew hav a fine fall and winter —

Yewers,

LEZAH KCAJ

Giv my best love Uncle Fud when yew see him. 'Spose I could be a shirt tail cuzzin of hisn??

(Aunt Jo's note: I wouldn't be a mite surprised effen yew was a cousin of that old rounder at all, Lezah. But howsome ever, I hope yew have a regular fine time fer yourself this winter, and thet damp Massachewetts air ain't too much fer you. Glad yew like my dibs and dabs of gossip, I'll have to figger out somethin' real good fer you next summer. Take care of your self, and come back, you hear!)

Wildwind Fishermen Have Luck

Guests at Wildwind have been avidly pursuing the flunny species this past week with considerable luck. Mr. K. Cobbett of Swampscott, Mass., brought in a whoppin' 5 1/2 lbs. salmon on his first fishing trip in the region. His son Danny also had good luck, but he couldn't top Dad.

Mr. Berne of Forest Hills, N. Y., took out a three day license almost in desperation, and kept hauling in fish. One, a 3 pounder, he decided to have mounted.

Also registered this week are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edwards, Lynn, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Mudsco, Passaic, N. J. — back for the umpteenth time —; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Johnson, Waterboro; Mr. and Mrs. Bjorklund, Auburn, Mass.; L. Ripley and C. Roose, Lynn, Mass.; Dr. and Mrs. Downing and their daughters, Kennebunk; S. Levine and two sons, Dorchester, Mass.; C. Cyr and son, Bristol, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Sweetman and their daughter and Mr. and Mrs. L. Login and their three daughters, Rockaway, N. J.

Mirak Boys Clean-Up

On Monday Charles and Edward Mirak put in a very profitable day fishing. Although they will not divulge the exact location of their "fishing hole," they were guided by Jack Coddington owner of Black Bear Camps.

Charles and Edward Mirak with their catch.

The results of this hard day with rod and reel were fine indeed. Charlie caught two beautiful five pound salmon. Not to be out done "Big Eddie" latched on to a monster 8 lb. 2 oz. salmon. Needless to say, Eddie is having this one mounted. The fish was 24" long with a girth of 16", and was taken on a Sparky.

End Of Era:

ness with the summer tourist. Two trains daily brought fashionable ladies and gentlemen into the region from points south. These trains were met by conveyances that carried the passengers and their considerable luggage to the hotels of their choice. Such hotels as the Mountain View House, The Rangeley Lake House, the Birches, the Barker, the Upper Dam House, the Mooselookmeguntic House. These hotels, with their well appointed rooms, large dining rooms, their lounges and ballrooms more than established the region as a tourists' mecca.

Gradually, as in comparable resort areas, these hotels have disappeared. Two were closed due to the gradual decline of patronage, and three have been destroyed by fire. Many residents of the region will remember the fire that destroyed the Birches. This fine hotel, built by Capt. Barker on Student's Island, was destroyed at the peak of its career in a mighty holocaust that spread to the main land leaving acres of destruction in its wake. Prior to World War II the Upper Dam House closed, but it was not until the 1950's that the region saw the twilight era of the mighty resort hotel.

Within the past eight years we have seen the demolition of three of our finest hotels. The original Mountain View House was razed, and then shortly afterward the annex was consumed by fire. This was followed by the closing of the Lake House, and on Wednesday night the destruction of the Mooselookmeguntic House.

Today the Rangeley Region is caught in a violent surge of change and redevelopment. The era of the large hotel is gradually closing up and down the Eastern Seaboard and the era of the motel and housekeeping cottage is at hand. Progress is the keynote, and we are swept along in its tide, but for many of us there are moments of nostalgia for the old era. The era in which we were born and raised.

For one final moment let us look back at this dead era and try to recapture the many memories that went up in flames with the Mooselookmeguntic House. Think back of the many men and women who operated this hotel from the time that Rufus Crosby and Walter Twombly purchased the log cabin at Haines Landing from George Soule in 1886.

These gentlemen opened the first Mooselookmeguntic House. Operation of this hotel fell into many hands after Twombly and Crosby. Among these were C. T. Richardson, who at one time operated the Oquossoc Angling Assoc.; Kimball and Bowley of Mountain View; and E. B. Whorff.

Around 1897 Fred Burns

bought the hotel and, with Theodore Page as manager, built the now existing cabins along the lake front. In 1909 Mr. Burns married Mabel Wright, widow of Dr. A. P. Wright. After Mr. Burn's death in 1913, Mrs. Burns and her small son Fred Jr. were in sole command at the Mooselookmeguntic House until Mrs. Burns marriage to Loamma Thomas in 1922. Pat and Mabel managed the hotel until 1951 when Pat and Fred took over.

In 1954 the hotel was sold to Mr. and Mrs. Gauthier Thibodeau, who are the current owners.

That is the heritage of the Mooselookmeguntic House. Its owners, its guests, its employees. The dances, the dinner parties, the many happy summers spent by many happy people. "Oldest and best in the Region," that was her advertising slogan. She was a queen of hotels, and like a queen she died.

But what of the new era. What is the future of the Mooselookmeguntic House? Will she, like the phoenix, rise again from the ashes to a bigger and brighter future? At this early date, it

Bald Mountain News

The big news of the week at Bald Mountain was last Wednesday night's fire. Two of the guests, Marion Haldenstein and Ed Rosewater, discovered the fire, and several of the men lent helping hands.

After all the excitement, things have settled back to the normal vacation activities. The recent hot spell brought out the waterskiers enmasse; and swimming and fishing have been popular too. The lounge is a popular spot on cool evenings for games in front of the open fireplace.

Newly registered are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foster, and Mr. and Mrs. L. Rebenfeld, Princeton, N. J.; Barton Kramer, Haverhill, Mass.; Alfred Orenstein, Waban, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. S. Bach, New York City; and Mr. and Mrs. Joel Hutzler, Baltimore, Md.

Hunter Cove Host To Sept. Fishermen

What with the children departing for school, things are quieter than usual at Hunter Cove, and fishing is the principal interest now. Registered this week are Dr. and Mrs. Eldon Egger, Brockton, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Allen, Hampton Falls, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Cole, Grafton, West Virginia.

Mr. Cole reports that Grafton, West Virginia is the "home" of Mother's Day, and that plans are afoot there for a national shrine to commemorate it.

Coming for September fishing as usual are Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Sadler, Brunswick, Maine; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Rege, Uniondale, New York; Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Alsfelder, Cincinnati, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. William Butchorn, Staten Island, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cashell, Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., N. Y.

Sam-O-Set Guests

Not all the guests at Sam-O-Set this week were strangers. In fact some of the guests were right at home. Mr. and Mrs. Steve Swain's daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilkinson of Manchester, N. H. and their children Wanda Lee, Scotty, Karen and Roger were up for a weekend over Labor Day.

Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Richard N. Bail and family of Whitman, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Lyon and family of Darien, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Binette of Lewiston, Maine; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Arseneault of Lisbon, Me.; Mr. De Bulger and Mr. Ed Tole of Ossining, N. Y.; John Overlock of Augusta; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Dunham of Montague, Mass. and Mr. and Mrs. Elton Brooks and son of Robbinston, Maine.

Verrill's "Shuffle" Tournament A Success

Last weekend Urban Verrill tried his hand at promoting a regional shuffleboard tournament at his courts at Verrill's Deluxe Cabins. About 24 people showed up and some crack players made a very interesting afternoon both for the players and the gallery. First place was taken by Evelyn York and Leo Taylor. Second place was taken by Ross Schwartz and Tague Lowell. Third place went to Harland Bryant and Alton Quimby and fourth place to Evelyn Bryant and Urban Verrill. Urban Verrill, owner of Verrill's

Deluxe Cabins was so pleased with the turnout that he is considering running a shuffleboard tournament every month next year.

Guests at Verrill's have been having fun boat riding in Haley Pond and hiking and picnicking. Two parties have gone to Piazza Rock for picnic lunches. Guests include, Alex Golick and family of Bayside, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Carol Stuart and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Flarity and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wood, all of Portland, Maine; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Denjameo of Hartford, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. V. Bushy also of Hartford; Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Henry of Montreal, Canada; Mr. and Mrs. A. Ganberman and son of Richmond Hills, N. Y.; and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Burkquhart of Westboro, Mass.

End Of Era:

is hard to tell. But her owner, Gauthier Thibodeau, is not ticked by any means. Already he is planning to raze all the old buildings that stand in back of the original hotel. With this area cleared, he will have a beautiful site to build a motel, hotel or whatever type of resort building he wishes. But one thing is certain, the new Mooselookmeguntic House will not be a ninety-roomed building with galleries and ballrooms. Such a building is obsolete, a remnant of another time, the ghost of a dead era which will never rise again.

BELMONT, NEW YORK, DISPATCH: "... It is a recognized fact that taxpayers of this state are subjected to a substantial 'brokerage fee' under any federal aid program. The Citizen's Public Expenditure Survey estimated that the $1.5 billion school aid program, defeated in the House last year, would have cost taxpayers of this state $2.25 in federal taxes for each dollar returned as 'aid.'"

Vacationing this week at Antlers are Mr. and Mrs. W. Franklin Burnham and their 3 sons,

Horton's Has Happy Holiday

According to "Alpine Pete" Horton this Labor Day weekend was one of the nicest he has experienced in years. This was because many of his old customers came back and they held what amounted to a kind of family reunion. Some of the people hadn't been to the region for 8 years. Mr. P. R. Jackman of Portland visited Mrs. Jackman and her illustrious offspring "Alpine Pete" himself, over the weekend.

Among the weekenders at Horton's were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pelletier of Bellerica, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Zimmerman of Maywood, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Croteau of Reading, Mass.

(who joined the family of Highlander subscribers); Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Deva of Orange, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Soule and son of Brockton, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Oliver Ellis of Haverhill, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. John Williamson of Sayville, R. I.

Weekend fun included water skiing, fishing excursions, two cookouts and movies of Horton's and the Rangeley Region shown out of doors one warm balmy evening.

True's Tried And True Friends Return

The Labor Day weekend was made happy by the return of many old friends. Everybody enjoyed the renewal of friendships.

Mrs. Henry True wants everybody to know that True's Camps will be open AS USUAL until Oct. 1 with full service in the dining room for guests and the public by reservation. It will be open into October as late as the weather permits.

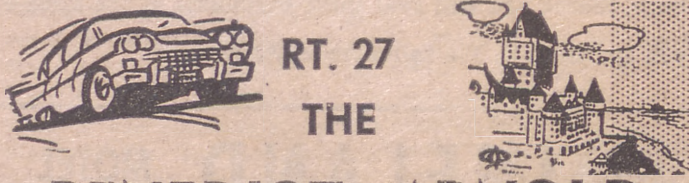

Other events include the return of the Leavitts to Bloomfield and Ann to school. The rumor is that Ann is looking forward to receiving an unusual and exotic pet as a gift from one of the guests at True's of this past summer.

No Place Like Home

Matthew Gallagher of Philadelphia, Pa., who has been vacationing at Birchwood Lodge with his mother, has become very attached to the Rangeley Region and Birchwood in particular. This attachment became evident on Saturday when, after an early departure for Bar Harbor, the Gallaghers phoned back to Birchwood with great concern.

Saddleback Staff Shortened

The staff at Saddleback Lake Lodge has been hit hard by the opening of school. The classroom called Alice Davis of Farmington and Dolores Lasalle of Rangeley High. Mrs. Zerilda Fortier returned to her winter job at Bates College and Mrs. Hermia Steward to her school bus.

The guests at Saddleback Lake Lodge were treated to a nature hike under the guidance of Clayton Knox of Buffalo, N. Y. Mr. Knox is an amateur naturalist who was born in Weld, Maine and gave an enlightening and entertaining exposition of the trees, plants, and other flora and fauna of the Saddleback Lake area.

Peg Robbins, co-owner of Saddleback Lake Lodge, reports that guests have shown intense interest in the Rangeley Saddleback Development taking place across the lake from the Lodge. She said "Everybody is fascinated by the idea of skiing on Saddleback Mountain. They have been studying its slopes through the binoculars and many have expressed the desire to return this winter."

Cupsuptic Cruise

Among the more beautiful boat rides in the whole Rangeley Lakes Region is the ride up Cupsuptic River from Cupsuptic Lake at the head of Mooselookmeguntic Lake. A more picturesque or idyllic stretch of river would be hard to imagine. The water is clear and pure and deep. The trees grow in friendly profusion right to the water's edge. There is no current as the lake level extends up to the little rapids at the place marked on the quadrangle maps as Moocher's Home is approximately two miles above the Cupsuptic bridge on Rt. 16. An interesting feature of the river is its deep water. The old river channel is amply deep for the largest cruiser on Mooselookmeguntic. As it winds among the trees at the foot of the mountains, each bend reveals some new charm. There are large quiet trout pools, rock ledges, dramatic views of West Kennebago Mountain, reedy bayous where ducks swim among the lily pads, clean attractive lunch grounds, and with it all a strong sense of penetrating the trackless wilderness, that is, until you come to Moo-cher's Home and see the shiny Chevrolet parked by the cabin.

Dr. Pennell took me up the river the other day to show me the beauties of an area that is not now fully usable because of the low bridge over Cupsuptic River on Rt. 16. It is logical to open this unique section of Mooselookmeguntic Lake to full use by the building of a higher bridge when this bridge is reconstructed in the near future. For not only is the river a choice cruise but the trip up through Cupsuptic Lake is admirable on its own. The several little rocky tree covered islands and the extensive driki beds which we passed invite early exploration on our part.

Hillside Camps To Remain Open

June Morton has announced that Hillside Camps will remain open until Dec. 1 this year, to take care of hunters.

Highland Bowmen Field Archery Club which was founded this past summer, has stimulated a great deal of interest in hunting deer with the bow among both residents and guests of the region. Art Folsom, local guide and bow hunter says he believes he can almost guarantee shots at a standing deer to any person who will try and keep at it.

Of course for the majority of sportsmen the shotgun and the ruffed grouse are the first hunting experiences of the region to which they look. The ruffed grouse also known as partridge or "patridge" haunts the woods, roads and edges of fields in early October. They offer one of the most delicious dinner possibilities you ever put a tooth into as well as great sport in the most wonderful time of the year for the Rangeley Region as far as weather and climate are concerned.

Treasurer of the Corporation Dr. Paul Fichtner reports that 50 new stock holders have been added to the corporation files in the past two weeks bringing the total number to 181 stockholders. The feeling is that the response has been very good. There is hope that every adult in the Rangeley Region will buy at least one share of stock in the corporation and as much more as he or she sees fit. This will help to make the development of the Rangeley Region into a winter sports resort, part of the life of every citizen.

Construction:

will swing into high gear.

A great many of the curves in the road will be eliminated and others will be eased. A new bridge will be built across Dodge Pond stream which will almost eliminate the curve at that point. At the completion of this section the permanent hard top will be put on the entire road from Rangeley to Oquossoc.

Fall Foliage:

Many of the plans for the Festival have yet to be announced, but one and all may be sure that this year, as in years past, the Lions have two days of fun and activities in store for all.

Throughout the summer representatives of the four Rangeley High School classes have been diligently selling tickets for the annual Fall Foliage Festival. Now, as the date approaches, these young people are determinedly trying to win the honor of selecting the Festival Queen.

Won't you help these young people in their race for the top honors. Buy your tickets today.

Scott Paper:

"Scott and other large landowners in Maine have opened up hundreds of miles of otherwise inaccessible wilderness sections by building and maintaining graded gravel roads to such remote areas. The public generally is free to use such roads except for infrequent periods of fire hazard, unsafe driving conditions, construction, etc."

Madden stated "We endeavor to keep these instances at a minimum and our Company is preparing signs to be used to explain to the public why it may be necessary to temporarily close a particular road. We try to explain to our guest that we expect them to be careful with fire and cigarettes."

"Modern methods of harvesting timber are beneficial to wildlife. Our Company policy on roads permits wider harvesting of game and fish as well as brings vacation dollars to the State."

Westshore Notes

Mr. and Mrs. F. Greisiger and their son of Philadelphia, Pa. are back at Westshore for their 5th season. With them is their handsome red setter, Ray. When we called at Westshore the Greisiger family were having a hot game of croquet ably (?) assisted by Ray.

Foster and Eva King were pleased and relieved to receive a telegram from their daughter Terry informing them that she had arrived in San Diego on Sunday night. They estimated that she had averaged 600 miles a day. That's some driving.

Also registered at Westshore are George Finney, East Hartford, Conn.; Robert Bage, Mansfield Depot, Conn.; Mrs. H. L. Van Wyck, Randolph; Laura Smith, Gardiner; Mr. and Mrs. G. Schneider, Philadelphia, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Owen, North Stratford, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lamb and family, New York City; and M. P. Carlson and S. F. Jones, Hedding, N. H.

Trout Bite At Quimby Pond

Left to right: Dr. Paul Oskar of Lawrence, Mass., Suzann Story of N. Y. C., and George McGoldrick of Lynn, Mass. with a days catch of brooktrout from Quimby Pond.

The trout are hungry at Quimby Pond if the string caught by three of Needham's guests is any indication. The lucky disciples of Isaac Walton were George McGoldrick of Lynn, Mass., Suzann Story of N. Y. and Dr. Paul Oskar of Lawrence, Mass. The brooktrout were all males and weighed up to three pounds each. They were caught in Quimby Pond on dry flies under the guidance of Omer Needham's Quimby Pond Camps.

WORDS OF THE POET
An Indian with his Dead Child

by Mrs. Hemans (early 19th C. English poet) feeling indignantly the want of sympathy evinced towards him by the white inhabitants, particularly on the death of his only child, gave up his farm soon afterwards, dug up the body of his child, and carried it with him two hundred miles through the forests to join the Canadian Indians. Tudor's Letters on the Eastern States of America.

In the silence of the midnight
I journey with my dead;
In the darkness of the forest-boughs,
A lonely path I tread.
I have raised thee from the grave-sod.
By the white man's path defiled;
On to th' ancestral wilderness,
I bear thy dust, my child!
Thou shalt rest by sounding waters
That yet untamed may roll;
The voices of that chainless host
With joy shall fill thy soul.
I have left the spoiler's dwellings,
For evermore, behind;
Unmingled with their household sounds,
For me shall sweep the wind.
Alone, amidst their hearth-fires,
I watched my child's decay,
Uncheered, I saw the spirit-light
From his young eyes fade away.
In the silence of the midnight
I journey with the dead;
But my heat is strong, my step is fleet,
My father's path I tread.

Browns Prepare For Busy Fall

Mr. and Mrs. Lon Brown at Brownie's Camps are all set for a busy fall season. They will be open through the hunting season, and are expecting a good one too.

Mr. and Mrs. Kohl of Haddon Heights, N. J. are still staying at Brownie's, and Mr. Kohl is hard at it with his house painting.

Also staying at Brownie's are Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Tharp, Shamokin, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Calawa, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Therrien, Nashua, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Loranger and son Wayne, and Mrs. Laura Lamoureu, Ware, Mass.

APPRECIATION

Several people in Rangeley have spoken of the generosity of Ray Magno and Son of Farmington, who are tearing down the old Rangeley Lakes Hotel. It seems that Magno has given away a tremendous amount of materials from the building to Rangeley Region people.
